

Proven leader in the luxury market

Today the Giltrap Group is one of the strongest motor vehicle groups in New Zealand ...

It's been New Zealand's leading luxury car for four years and looks set to make 2012 the fifth. Yes, Audi does pin its hopes high, but if history is anything to go by, the brand always delivers.

Just as bespoke styling and engineering excellence are the brand's hallmarks, Giltrap Audi in Grey Lynn is now Auckland's leading Audi dealer. The business is operating from a new state-of-the-art terminal in Great North Road — the largest Audi dealership in New Zealand.

The new terminal is one of only 140 Audi terminal dealerships operating throughout the world and pays tribute to the success of the Audi brand in New Zealand.

The Giltrap Audi terminal houses a 17-car showroom, 12 separate service bays, parts and vehicle storage, and features a striking curved wall inside the showroom that is reminiscent of the Auto Union racetracks from the 1930s.

With its two-storey aluminium façade and curved interior, the terminal is an impressive addition to the yards on the Great North Road.

Proudly specialising in the sale of new and used Audi vehicles, while boasting the latest technology in its parts and service centre, the terminal invites motorists to experience the ultimate in Audi service.

Giltrap Audi's new terminal sports an impressive two-storey aluminium facade and a 17-car showroom. It is an impressive addition to the Great North Road.

Breaking records

Audi has been number one in New Zealand's luxury car market for several years, while internationally it is breaking sales records.

Luxury car sales within New Zealand were up in the first half of this year, compared with the same period last year, with Audi leading the sales. Audi sold 732 vehicles in the year to the end of June, up 1.6 percent from last year's total for the same period.

Audi has stood for technological progress ever since 1909 and can look back on a century of automotive tradition and innovation. Even the vintage models demonstrate the high standards of technology and design that have always driven the company.

Audi's story is one of the most fascinating in automotive history. The Audi emblem with its four rings identifies one of Germany's oldest-established automobile manufacturers.

The Giltrap Group

Giltrap Audi is a keen supporter of the Auckland community, with the Giltrap family committed to both luxury motoring and event sponsorship. The Giltrap Group is a family-owned New Zealand company that encompasses retail automotive importing, distributing, wholesaling sales and services, and high-performance racing.

As of 2011, the group owns and operates seven retail dealerships, representing 14 different brands, and employing more than 500 staff.

It all began in the 1960s when young Colin Giltrap, a car mad businessman, founded Hamilton luxury car dealership, Monaco Motors. He soon expanded his interests by buying Matamata Motors and Coutts of Great North Road. Colin has since invested a passion for cars into a portfolio of automotive businesses both here and overseas.

Today the Giltrap Group is one of the strongest motor vehicle groups in New Zealand. While Colin continues his interest in business and motor racing, his sons Richard and Michael have taken hands-on management roles. Like Colin, they love cars and know it's how and where they go that matters.

Giltrap Audi Grey Lynn

Giltrap Audi has 55 employees, who make up its sales, service, parts, administration and grooming teams. Coming from a diverse range of backgrounds, the Giltrap Audi team are proud to be associated with the Audi brand and be a part of the Giltrap Group family.

Giltrap Audi is an avid supporter of its local community and sponsors a number of events every year.

It has already hosted a number of events in its new Grey Lynn terminal, including for the new Zealand Breast Cancer Foundation, Starship and the Bruce McLaren Scrapbook launch.

The terminal dealership sponsors local schools, sports clubs and charities, such as Ponsonby Primary, Cornwall Park School, Herne Bay, Cure Kids, NZ Equestrian, Bayfield School, CatWalk Trust, Canteen, Kristin School and Kings College.

Audi hosted a successful Audi ice experience in Queenstown during August, with about 120 customers and dealers being put through their paces at the Southern Hemisphere Proving grounds.

Audi was also an official sponsor of New Zealand Fashion Week in September.

Walk for cancer kids a mega success

It was one big trail of orange as the Mitre 10 Mega and CanTeen team headed out from the Hastings store to lead the 28km CanTeen fundraising walk last month.

Decked out in orange high-visibility vests and bandannas the numbers swelled as they neared their final destination, the Napier Mitre 10 Mega store.

Shannon Boynton, from CanTeen, said she was stoked that the number of entries at 1274, was double that of last year.

Kerry Meehan from Mitre 10 Mega marketing said the $14,000 raised would go towards the local CanTeen charity, supporting young people living with cancer. "We had a really good time with them last year and they don't get any direct government funding."

Ms Boynton said the funds raised from last year helped to buy a CanVan, which was used to pick up younger members who don't yet drive.

It was the fourth year for the Mega Walk and Ms Boynton said: "It was a great success and it finally had the feeling of a big walk, with everybody getting involved."

ENERGY TO BURN: Kerry Meehan and Hastings store owner Graeme Ricketts look on as CanTeen members Abi and Pippa Huddleston, with Andrew, Michael and Sheldon Hadland jump for joy over the $13,500 cheque raised by the walk.

It does not receive any direct government funding. To purchase contact the Dunedin office 477 4933 or visit canteen.org.nz/shop.

Gareth's hair goes for a good cause

By NICK SILVESTER

Gareth Reid experienced some major hair loss last week – the 12 year old had his head shaved for charity in front of his St Peter's Scout Group peers.

Gareth has been growing his hair for four years but following the death of two of his grandparents from cancer he decided he could put his long locks to good use and lose them in support of CanTeen.

The big shave happened with his fellow Keas, Cubs, Scouts and Venturers cheering him on at the St Peter's Scout Group's end-of-year celebrations.

Gareth had been trying to raise $500 for CanTeen and was almost there. He said he was hoping a few extra donations on the night would take him over his target.

His mother Kay Bell said she was proud of her son but glad to see his long hair finally go. Gareth said she had threatened to cut it off in the night a couple of times but he told her she couldn't because he was "growing it for charity".

CanTeen representatives Noah Lockett-Turton and Victoria Carroll were there to meet Gareth and help with the shave.

"For a young kid to organise this on his own and do this much is amazing," said Mr Lockett-Turton.

"It's definitely appreciated by Canteen that's for sure," said Ms

Carroll.

As it was the St Peter's Scout Group's end-of-year celebration some members were presented with awards. Rob Couper, Joe Di Leva and Niki Walker all earned their chief scout award, the highest award at the Scout level, which they had been working towards for about a year. There were also Duke of Edinburgh awards given out: Tamsen Walker gained bronze, Mark Swarbrick a silver and Tom Swarbrick a gold award.

2011 was the St Peter's Scout Group's 100th year and centenary celebrations are planned for 2012.

Bashers hand over the cash

GO TEAM: The Pukekohe CanTeen Bike Bash committee, left, Kusum Manga, Jude Balle, Steve McCraith, Penny Warwick and

Surinder Edwards delivered the final cheque to CanTeen representative Nikita Vincent, centre, on Thursday. A massive $41,000 was raised for CanTeen in Pukekohe this year, $26,000 raised at the event itself, $5000 by Pukekohe High students and $10,000 donated by someone who wished to remain anonymous. The committee was thrilled with the success of this year's event and said bring on next year's event.

Cameron fends off media jabs

TINIROTO “Mountain Man” boxer Shane Cameron is defending the amount of money he received in a charity fight and says the national media “painted a bad picture of him.”

National media reported that he received between $70,000 and $80,000 for his charity fight with Monty Beetham in the Fight For Life event on December 3 that pitted celebrities against each other to raise awareness for the Prostate Cancer Foundation.

The fights raised $166,000 for the charity. Mr Cameron confirmed that he earned between $50,000 and $60,000 for the fight but did not want people to think he did it just for the money.

“It’s professional boxing. That’s my job and I think everyone needs to be paid on the night.

“Prostate cancer received $166,000 they would not have received if I hadn’t put on the show and everyone has to be rewarded in some way.”

Speaking from Auckland, where he owns a gym, the boxer from Tiniroto said it did annoy him that the article picked on his fee for doing his job when a lot of people did not see all the other stuff he did for charities outside the media spotlight.

“A lot of people don’t see that, they only see what was done for the Prostate Cancer Foundation.

“I do a lot of other stuff all throughout the year but I don’t expect any media attention for that,” he said.

Cameron is an ambassador for the South Auckland Health Foundation Kids First charity, has taken part in events with children from the East Coast and is involved in holiday youth programmes for children in South Auckland.

“I do a lot of work with Kids First and visit the hospitals to see the kids.

“Last month I did a 17-kilometre run through the Waitakere Ranges for Cure Kids and with my gym we raised $4000 for that charity.”

In October he also took part in a fun day at Pukekohe for Canteen.

“I don’t want you to think I do it just for money, it’s painting a bad picture of me.”

The clash with Monty Beetham was called lacklustre by the stuff.co.nz article but Cameron said he did his best with the opponent who was in front of him.

“There were six two-minute rounds and it was all over before I got warmed up really.”

No plans had been set in concrete for his next event and until then he would continue to train and take part in children’s charity events.
